Our destination!

Follinge

Stockholm Where we begin our 8 hour bus journey up to Follinge!

The Arrival at Camp!

Ground Zero before we put the tents up!

Snapshots of the goings on over the campsite

The Brits Campsite!

Never leave a group of boys alone with a fire, a bucket of water and no leader! As a result you come back to a damp tent with a ditch dug on the tent instead on around it! Hence we had to lift the tent up leaving of the cases and beds uncovered with the sweds looking confused as to what the hell was going on!

The A Team

If you have a problem

Murdoch

B.A

and there's know one else you can call!

Helen

Maybe you should hire!

Face

Aka Hannibal

As part of the camp each county had to perform an act on stage something we haven't rehearsed or even decided up until the day before properly!

The British Act
+ 1 American leader
Called Chelsy!

The stage

But in true British spirit we through caution to the wind and followed in the foot steps of our American IFYE exchange

With a little sketch we made up & a little sing song to get the Swed's on the feet! I Love when a plan comes together!

A Snapshot of The A Team

Over the week everyone got to choose different activities to do from a list, Canoeing for 2 days, White Water rafting, Horse riding, Meet the Moose, visiting local towns.

Who dropped this snow!!

This snow was bought from the mountains just 20mins away from the camp just so that we could play a game with snowballs! As you can imagine there was a fair few snowball fights!

8 Hour Night Hike need I say more!?

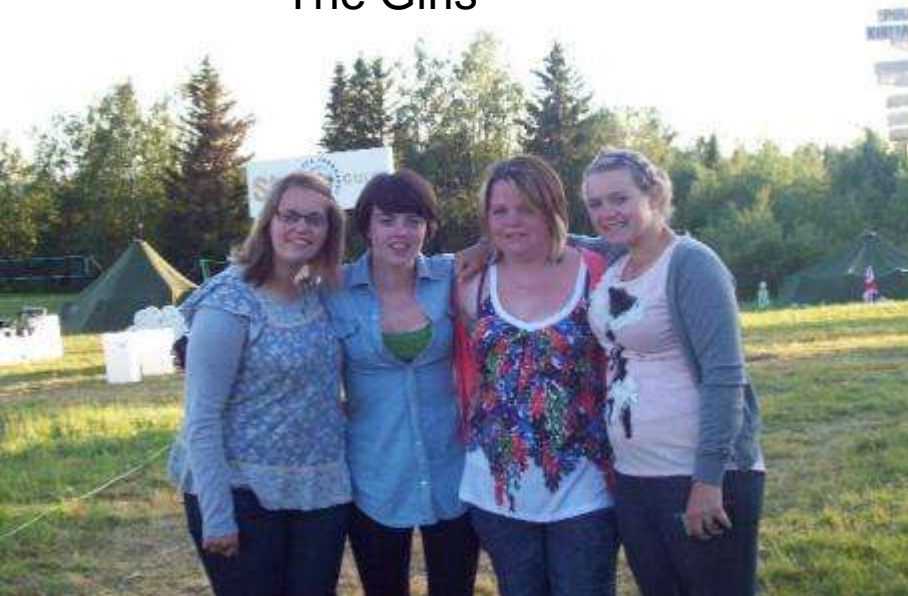

1 Brit! 3 Swedish!, One team! 8 Hours! and hell of a lot of walking and more questions to answer on route than any mastermind episode you've ever scene! with a night time canoe trip thrown in for good measure across a lake to brake up the sweat, tears and I almost forgot the mosquito bite attacks.

The Camp's score board for all the different teams!

LÄGERTÖPPEN

The Girls

The Girls Tent!

Other activities through out the week included a massive volley tournament, sack races, blowing arrows through pipes at targets, team exerisces.

This just shows the Swedish that the British know how to dance

As part of the week each club had to parade through the local village up to the site where a few words were said about their clubs and the why the camp took place

The March through the Village

Before leaving England we had make sure we had a readily supply of union jacks, England flags and of course the odd welsh flag!

Our local lake of which we spent a couple of afternoons chilling out in!

Heathrow Arrivals!
